Vacation Bible School Thank You!

What does thankfulness mean to me? I'm sure at least everyone has heard this question at least once in their lives. Probably in grade school, just around November, before dismissing for the Thanksgiving holidays. Or perhaps a parent or aunt or uncle, maybe even a grandparent asked you the question, "What are you thankful for?" as you sat around the table passing mashed potatoes and green bean casserole. I always had a hard time with the idea of thankfulness. I always knew what I was supposed to say at those times. "I'm thankful for family, I'm thankful for friends, and I'm thankful for this time we have to spend with one another." But if I'm entirely honest, after a week of sleeping on a couch, two five hour drives in the backseat with a younger brother, and meal after meal of dressing up...thankfulness was something I struggled with during Thanksgiving. I wish I could go back; I wish I could tell my seven year old self that it will not always be that way and to watch out because thankfulness, true thankfulness, has a way of sneaking up on you in the most unexpected of ways.

Last week was not Thanksgiving, but I was thankful. I was thankful with every turn I made. Vacation Bible School is not an easy feat to pull off. There are many cogs and gears that must work in time together to keep day to day operations running smoothly. And 70 kids, while a truly joyful thing, can be a lot to handle and take care of. And yet, this year, concerns were very rarely in my sights.

Dozens of volunteers gave their time, energy, talents, and even money, to make sure that this masterpiece ran smoothly. Adults escorted children around the church all week and they got to know each of them in a way I could not do alone. Other adults worked out lessons, planning each of their days with fun activities that suited each age group, giving them education and fun, all things necessary to promote Christian growth. And a select few adults, were wonderfully "just there." They did not have a designated place, but merely filled in as necessary, going where they were needed and allowing themselves to be used as I deemed necessary.

Every year I look upon the undertaking that is Vacation Bible School, and it is always a good practice in humility to confront the fact that I cannot do it alone. I cannot fully express the thankfulness that I feel for all the volunteers, youth and adults alike, that made last week possible. Each child that graced our church felt special and wanted. The time given to them was an experience not soon forgotten.

Thank you. Thank you for your support. Thank you for your endurance. Thank you for your time and your talents. Thank you for being willing to try something new, get up early in June, and greet each day with a smile. Thank you for decorating, for feeding children, for singing songs, playing games, sharing heroics, discovering science, and sharing Bible Stories with them. Thank you for taking pictures, for donating to the cause, for making slideshows, putting band-aids on boo-boos, making sure the group stays together, and above all showing the love of Christ in everything you said and did! Well done. Now be sure to take a nice long nap! You've earned it!

Montreat Youth Conference

The Montreat Youth Conference, in Montreat, North Carolina, is often viewed as something of a right of passage for many Presbyterian Youth. It is something looked forward to and counted down to, even among those who have never been there.

This year I had the opportunity to take three remarkable young women who had all just finished their Junior year of High School. Usually I try to plan these big summer trips for closer to the end of the summer, late July or early August, but certain circumstances meant that this year we would be attending week one of the conference. It was a busy and hectic time in the church, VBS was on the horizon, but in the end there were no regrets that any of us had gone.

The theme of the week was The Missing Peace. Peace...an ever illusive endangered emotion in the society we live in. Together, with five hundred other youth, we met every day for Keynote, small group, recreation, and worship, to focus and find this missing peace and along the way we discovered friendship, fun, and serenity (at least as much serenity as you can get among 500 youth).

As always, it felt like the week ended all too soon, and just as it always does, the road back home seemed a lot longer than it did when we were on our way. Through the heavy sleeping and the peace we felt as we searched out license plates, the girls took up the notebook and pen and wrote down their reflections for future generations who might be unsure about whether this is an experience worth having. Read for yourself, but in my opinion, these thoughts share with us that Montreat is a blessing, no matter what month you arrive.

“Montreat, in my opinion, was one of the best experiences I have ever experienced. The feel of God was everywhere in the faces, trees, and waters. I have learned a lot from the worships every night and every morning. Montreat is a place of belonging and finding a way to help the world. I would have loved to be able to have attended again but I was grateful to have had the opportunity to have attended at least once. I learned things about myself from being at Montreat. I have learned and enjoyed learning about others views of the world. I have never been to the mountains but having Montreat in the mountains helped the attendees to experience the presence of God more intensely. I believe with my whole heart that every youth should have the opportunity to experience the wonders of Montreat. I wish I had the opportunity to have gone sooner and more times, but as I said, I don’t regret this decision. I had the best time.” -Garsha Thomas, 17.

“This retreat was something new for me! The first day I wasn’t sure how it was gonna go. The first time we did keynote I was getting really exited for the next days. Keynote always made my days better. Small group was fun as well. We got closer to God each day. The games my leaders picked were very fun and got to know people better. Small group was so much fun. Rec was fun as well. I worked with a team that I didn’t know but got along with them easily. This retreat made me realize that anyone can make peace without violence. I would recommend this to a high schooler because it’s a good way to know God and to meet new friends. There were so many activities to keep you busy I hardly was bored. Then at the end of each day we did back home group and you get to know each person better each night. You get off topic easily but still I enjoyed it. I’m sad this will probably be my last time at Montreat but I would go back any day. I will miss the five of us together so much. Montreat was the best!” -Tatiana Lampe, 18

"Battle for the Bible"... This segment from a PBS series explores the dramatic, violent and world-shaking story of how, in the 15th and 16th centuries, a group of men set out to bring the Scriptures to people in their own language for the first time, launching a religious revolution that would change the course of history. The class and discussion will be led by Mike Galyean.

July 16

More and more young adults have opted out of Christianity and the church. They often name certain attitudes and behaviors of Christians that cause this exodus. The first of six sermons by Adam Hamilton entitled "When Christians Are Unchristian," tackles these issues by suggesting that you let go of your biases and question your assumptions. This DVD presentation and discussion will be led by Mike Galyean.

July 23

Continuing with the DVD series of sermons by Adam Hamilton, this segment entitled "Christians, Science, and Politics" explores an attitude held by many, especially young people, that keeps them from joining and following the Christian church. This DVD presentation and discussion will be led by Mike Galyean.

July 30

This third in a series of sermons by Adam Hamilton entitled "When Speaking of Other Religions," will look at another of the attitudes and behaviors of Christians that drive many young people away from the church. This provocative message will question statements made by many Christians about who's going to Heaven (or hell). The DVD and discussion will be led by Nancy Galyean.

Bring your own drink and favorite salad dressing and, if you would like, a snack/munchies for later. Come alone or bring a friend.

Cell phones for Soldiers and Glasses for VOSH

Thanks for all the cell phones and glasses that have been brought to the church. This is an ongoing ministry, and it proves how just one congregation can make a difference. From the faithful WPPC members we have collected thousands of pairs of glasses in the years since we started, and the cell phones number over 100!

The drop boxes are on the white cabinet in Fellowship Hall.

Deacon's Den ▪ 2 Cents A Meal ▪ WPPC Library

“Summertime and the living is easy ...” or so go the song lyrics. We love summer because it is a time to relax and do less, or at least something different from what we do the other nine or ten months of the year. If you have children, you have the satisfaction of knowing that they completed another school year, and the question of what to do with them for the next three months. A vacation and/or summer camp (and Vacation Bible School) will keep them busy for a while, and when they are old enough they can get a summer job. This pattern might continue through high school and college, and then they are adults and make plans on their own.

As we get older, the pattern changes because the focus of our life changes. When the children are grown and out of the house, our lives no longer rotate around their activities. Then we can concentrate more on the things we like to do in our free time, including travel and new hobbies. Later on, we can think about retirement, the time when we are no longer committed to the workday and occasional time off, but the opposite: lots of time off and finding ways to fill it. Hobbies, volunteer activities, mentoring, and perhaps a part-time job, can keep us occupied.

But what about the time when we can no longer do the things we love? When we can no longer drive at night, or maybe at all. When we can't see well enough to read the newspaper, or a book, or the church bulletin. When our once beautiful singing voice (at least in our own mind) doesn't carry a tune quite so well. We can still enjoy music and the written word, but we may depend more and more on other people to assist us with these activities. Someone to drive us to the grocery store and perhaps prepare meals for us. Someone to take us to church or the doctor. Someone to visit and read to us.

That is when we realize that life's activities go on even during the summer. The Deacons of Winter Park Presbyterian Church continue to carry out their duties of compassion all year long. Yes, they take vacations too, and they visit the home bound and organize memorial services and receptions. Time away from everyday stress is healthy and gives a person renewed energy to keep a positive attitude. Happy summer!

Sunday, July 23, 2017, is the next collection day for 2 Cents A Meal. Please continue your support for P.A.T.H. (Presbyterian Answer To Hunger). Your contributions support the Second Harvest Food Bank, which distributes meals to partner feeding programs across our six-county area; Society of St. Andrew (SoSA), which coordinates gleanings events with volunteers to provide fresh, nutritious produce to local food banks; Alliance for International Reforestation (AIR) in Guatemala has planted trees to provide fruit and prevent mudslides, as well as built and installed fuel-efficient brick stoves in remote poverty-stricken villages; and Madagascar Project (Dan and Elizabeth Turk, PC (USA) Missionaries). Dan trains seminary students in the planting and cultivation of fruit trees. Your contributions help our partners combat hunger in so many ways and in so many places. Thank you for your continued support. ~ The Compassion Committee

The Church Library will be closed the month of July. It will reopen in August with an attendant in the room on Monday and Thursday mornings (9am-Noon). Meanwhile, books are available for you to check out from the Library table in the Narthex. If you need access to the Library, you can do so by picking up a key from the receptionist in the main office.

Just a reminder - summer is a good time to curl up with a book to do some interesting fun reading which lets you escape summer's heat and rains!
