The Bible Through the Ages (Jan 26-Feb 16 ONLY)

Room 102

Jason Micheli

This class will explore how earlier Christians read and interpreted the scriptures. We will begin by addressing the information of the Bible, move through early Christianity, and conclude with modern approaches to the question of how to interpret the Bible. From the information gleaned in the class, we hope to gain insight into how we ourselves can better read and appropriate the scriptures. The class will be a combination of presentation and group discussion.

Listening for God

Parlor

Rene Cuthill

Listening for God is a collection of short stories and essays by modern writers ranging from Flannery O'Connor to Garrison Keillor and Frederick Buechner. The reader is challenged to listen for the unexpected ways God speaks to us in the most common everyday situations—waiting at the doctor's office, attending a family gathering, walking down the road. While the Bible is the Word of God, God's presence can be found all around us. Come along on the journey as we identify the unexpected experiences which intensify our growth.

The book, Listening for God, can be purchased in the WPPC front office for $10.
